Spring Festival Celebration to recreate popular Rose Show

Don't miss out on the Baywest Spring Festival from 17-20 September that aims to recreate the success of the once popular Aude Rose Show for Nelson Mandela Bay.

"This is one of the reasons we have teamed up with Sherwood Garden Centre," says Baywest Mall marketing manager Samantha Hewitson. "We are fortunate to live in a beautiful gardening region and we would like to celebrate that."

The Spring Festival Celebration will especially be enjoyed by lovers of Spring and those who adore flowers and lovely gardens. The festival includes talks by the Bay Bonsai Society, the Orchid Society, the Civic club, as well as a children's gardening workshop and flower arranging demonstrations. There will be creative displays of plants as well as plants to purchase.

Hewitson says the celebration was part of the centre's plan to bring new and innovative activities to the city. Organisers of the festival say the region is enjoying the best gardening season in more than a decade, given consistent and substantial recent rains and full supply dams. Even with the good rains and full supply dams, organisers are advocating water-wise and sustainable gardening techniques at the Spring Celebration Festival at Baywest Mall.

"The seasons have been kind and plants are starting to flourish," says Sherwood Garden Centre owner Carmel Wolf. "We are fortunate enough for the city's dams to be full, but we are encouraging gardeners to remain conscious of their water usage. Advice will include tips on when to water, as well as what indigenous and water-efficient plants to garden with."

"In spite of living in a fairly arid region, one is still able to cultivate a beautiful garden. Good gardening habits and being careful with water will ensure that the protection of this precious resource is respected."

"We are continuing to make good on our promise to bring 'big things' to the Bay, and will be announcing our next big and exciting event later this week," continues Hewitson.

Shoppers, she says, can look forward to more unique events at the mall, as more of their favourite stores opened their doors leading up to December. Recent store openings include Cotton On, MTN, KFC and Typo. Other new brands for the region which have recently opened at Baywest include Factorie, Grays, Tread & Miller, and Levisons.
